

Hospitalized

People

weekly

StyleWatch

winner's circle

Somalian-born supermodel Iman looked to her roots when she chose a Dolce & Gabbana ensemble topped with their stunning bejeweled coat with ruffia trim for last week's Essence Awards. "It had the elements of Africa and culture," she says. "It was fantastic."

The unconventional height "catches the eye and it's edgier," says Manhattan stylist Danna Weiss. Even better, she adds, 'Talk the dressy boots "are more stable than slingbacks."

Jennifer Tilly

Jill Hennessy

Queen Latifah

Back to Boot Camp

Here's a comfort fix: Resist the spring rush to strappy sandals and, like Queen Latifah and Jennifer Tilly, step out in mid-call boots instead. The unconventional height "catches the eye and it's edgier," says Manhattan stylist Danna Weiss. Even better, she adds, the dressy boots "are more stable than slingbacks." For her part, actress Jill Hennessy loves mid-calls "because I'm not brave enough to trot upon wet streets in sandals," she says. "A girl needs protection."

LeAnn Rimes

Drew Barrymore

Sweet dreams for Drew Barrymore, LeAnn Rimes and Jessica Simpson come courtesy of designer Danielle Robinson's handmade personality pillows. The rhinestone-and-leather cushions, inscribed with names like Angel and Queen, sell for $195 each at L.A.'s Fred Segal. "They're fun and decorative," says Simpson, who recently scored the Diva version. "They add a little drama to my decor."

 Send e-mail to stylewatch@people.com

Style Watch contributors: Michael Cohen, Alison Singh, Gae, Samantha McIntyre, Elizabeth McNeil, Tina L. Redwood, Gabrielle Reiffel