Celebs even have to look cute in their sweats," explains stylist Danna Weiss. "Plus, Juicy is sexy and comfortable."

Madonna is a huge fan of Juicy's graphic tees; she even had WAZZ embroidered on a hoodie.

Garcelle Beauvais-Nillon is pretty in a shocking-pink Juicy tracksuit.

Christina Applegate models her sweetest thing: a pair of candy-pink Juicy pants.

Why Is Hollywood Juiced on Juicy Couture?

I LOVE JUICY HOODED SWEATSHIRTS. I wear them with everything," enthuses actress Denise Richards. She's just one of the stars obsessed with the dressed-down and sexy look of Juicy Couture. But why? "Celebs even have to look cute in their sweats," explains stylist Danna Weiss. "Plus, Juicy is sexy and comfortable." Which is exactly what designers Pamela Skaisit-Levy and Gela

Taylor aimed for when they started the company in 1994 in search of the perfect-fitting tee. Note to A-list designer hopefuls: The tees, jeans, sweats and more — ranging from $32 to $202 at department stores — have been a hit since the girls gave away free samples last summer, including personalized goodies. Jennifer Aniston has a hoodie that says MRS. FITT; Sharon Stone's says BRONSTEIN RULES.
